STATE OF COLORADO PROCLAIMS ARCHAEOLOGICAL AWARENESS MONTH

Colorado's Lieutenant Governor Nancy Dick, pinch hitting for injured Governor Lamb, signed an Executive Order proclaiming January as Colorado Archaeological Awareness Month on Tuesday, January 4, 1983. This proclamation kicks off Colorado's Archaeological Awareness Year (CAAY), which is to be celebrated with a wide range of activities geared to make the public of Colorado more aware of the state's rich archaeological heritage and sensitive to protecting these irreplaceable remains. The Colorado Archaeological Society (CAS), Colorado Council of Professional Archaeologists (CCPA), and the Colorado Historical Society (CHS) have joined forces to promote the Awareness Year in an attempt to combat vandalism and foster archaeological site protection.

A $2500 grant from the Colorado Humanities Program has been used to obtain secretarial help and set up the initial program. Desk space has been provided at the Colorado Heritage Center, and Jim Grady is serving as Coordinator.

At the January 6-8, 1983, Society for Historical Archaeology meeting over 50 CAAY tee shirts with the "Make Friends with the Past" logo were sold. Slightly over $100 profit was realized, which will be used to print posters publicizing the Awareness Year. (Refer to page 3 for related article.)

SPECIAL LONDON ARCHAEOLOGY EXHIBIT ON LIMITED DISPLAY AT DENVER MUSEUM OF NATURAL HISTORY

by Joyce Herold

"The 2,000-Year Buried History of London" exhibit opened during a special showing for archaeologists attending the Society for Historical Archaeology open house at the Denver Museum of Natural History on January 6. This Museum of London exhibit will show for one month only to museum visitors, courtesy of the Archaeological Institute of America (AIA). The most recent materials representing about 2,000 years of London's history have been assembled in this presentation. Thirty panels of drawings, photographs, maps, and other graphic materials show how the detective work of archaeologists provides clues to a better understanding of the human past.

Probably the largest archaeology program in the world, employing about a hundred archaeologists, is carried out by the Museum of London. Excavations deep beneath the streets, subways, walls, and gardens of modern London have revealed many details about the constructions and lifeways of London's settlers, from Roman to modern. This exhibit focuses particularly on the London waterfront, showing the changing quays, revetments, reclamation projects, shipping, buildings, and docks from 1st Century Roman, through Saxon and Medieval times, to the present.

This London show was unveiled on the Queen Elizabeth II, which transported the exhibit to New York in 1981 for a long-term loan to the Archaeological Institute of America. The AIA has made the exhibit available exclusively in this area to the SHA meeting and then to the Denver Museum of Natural History audiences. Dr. Gene Sterud of AIA deserves particular thanks for his help in making the exhibit freely available to the regional archaeologists and public.

"The 2,000-year Buried History of London" runs through February 6 in Bailey Lounge of the museum, which is open 9-5 daily. Adult admission to the museum is $3. A description and guide to Roman London is available in the museum shop.

ARTHUR TOWNSEND SUSPENDED

Arthur Townsend, the Colorado State Historic Preservation Officer, was suspended without pay on December 6, 1982, following an investigation that suggested improper use of state funds. Bill Gagnon of the Pueblo Chieftan used a Freedom of Information Act request to obtain copies of Townsend's travel vouchers dating back to 1980. These records show a large number of telephone calls to a private condominium in Alexandria, Virginia. Gagnon brought this information to the attention of Barbara Sudler, Colorado Historical Society President, while state officials notified Governor Lamm's staff of the investigation. The preliminary analysis was sufficiently convincing that State Auditors were brought in to go over Townsend's records. The results of that audit have not yet been made public. Denver District Attorney Dale Tooley's office has also been investigating the continued p. 3

EDITORS’ NOTES

CCPA Directory

Please pay your 1983 dues and help update our membership information for the CCPA Directory (see last page of Newsletter). Review your membership classification as it appears on your address label and your dues status. We will have the 1983 Directory available for the March meeting; it will include only those individuals who have paid their 1982 and 1983 dues. All potential members who have been notified by Membership Chair Polly Hammer that they have met the criteria for membership should pay their 1983 dues to be listed. If you do not want to be listed, please indicate so on your 1983 Dues Payment form.

Extra Newsletter Issue Planned

Because the volume of articles accumulated for the January 1983 issue of the CCPA Newsletter (Volume 5, No. 3) is so great we have opted to put out an additional issue by Membership Chair Polly Hammer that they have met the criteria for membership should pay their 1983 dues to be listed. If you do not want to be listed, please indicated so on your 1983 Dues Payment form.

1983 ANNUAL MEETING

Don’t forget the next annual meeting, March 11-12, 1983, at the Denver Museum of Natural History’s (DMNH) West Auditorium—easy access off the freeway and plenty of parking! The program will feature behind the scene tours of the DMNH, a special planetary show, box lunch, formal papers, workshops, and dinner with a distinguished panel discussing Reminiscences of Colorado Archaeology.” Further information and registration data will appear in the next issue of the CCPA Newsletter.

CALL FOR PAPERS! Informal papers and workshops are scheduled for Saturday. Please send your title and a brief abstract to Sarah Nelson, Department of Anthropology, University of Denver, Colorado 80208 (753-2406). Papers will be scheduled at 15 minute intervals.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE MEETS JANUARY 22

The CCPA Executive Committee will meet Saturday, January 22, 1983, at the Denver Museum of Natural History for its last meeting prior to the CCPA Annual Meeting. It is expected that officers’ and committee reports as well as business introduced at the Glenwood Springs meeting will occupy most of the session. Additional action will focus on the replacement of Vice President/President-Elect Joe Lischke who has resigned. This position will be filled in accord with Section XIV of the CCPA Bylaws.

FINANCIAL REVIEW COMMITTEE REPORT

By Steve Sigstad

On July 9, 1982, Treasurer Kinzie Gordon and Steve Sigstad met with Mr. Albert S. Williams, CPA, to go over the financial records of CCPA.

This consultation was held in lieu of the audit required by CCPA’s Bylaws. In doing this, the Financial Review Committee endeavored to comply with the spirit, if not the letter, of the organization’s Bylaws. The Committee believes that obligation has been fulfilled.

It is the Committee’s recommendation that current plans to amend the Bylaw requirement of audit to one of financial review of the kind just accomplished be executed as soon as possible. The Committee further recommends that the Financial Review Committee become a Standing Committee with membership of staggered duration for the sake of continuity from one year to the next. Further, care should be exercised to assure that there exists among the Committee membership expertise in bookkeeping and rudimentary computer manipulation.

Among his other suggestions, Mr. Williams favors the formal composition of annual budgets, a suggestion with which the Committee agrees. The task of composition could belong to the President, President-Elect, and the Treasurer.

The only recommendation of Mr. Williams’ with which the Committee does not entirely agree is that of a dual signature requirement on CCPA checks. The Committee believes that this could become unnecessarily cumbersome.

Mr. Williams does not believe that our interest income would be taxable and that, therefore, surplus funds should be placed in Certificates of Deposit or money market instruments. In addition, he made some suggestions concerning the preparation of our financial statements and concerning our corporate status.

Any member of CCPA who wishes to see the precise financial data for the organization is referred to Treasurer Gordon’s balance sheet of June 11, 1982, or previous records kept by Treasurer Jeff Kenyon.

Supplementary Guidance from ACHP

The Advisory Council on Historic Preservation (ACHP) has recently issued the third "Section 106 Update." The first "Update" was Preparation of Memoranda of Agreement; the second was Information Regarding Suspension of Portions of Section 106; the third is Manual of Mitigation Measures. The latest--affectionately known as MMMS--includes a section on archaeological mitigation. All "Updates" are available from: Advisory Council on Historic Preservation, 1522 K Street NW, Suite 420, Washington, D.C. 20005.

Guidelines for 106 Exemptions

The Advisory Council on Historic Preservation has provided guidelines for exemptions under Section 214 of the National Historic Preservation Act (Federal Register, October 18, 1982, p. 46347). The guidelines allow for categorical and program exemptions from parts of the 1966 act and its implementing procedures and regulations. "When the Council determines, in accordance with these guidelines, that the exemption is consistent with the purposes of the Act...." Generally, the Council will approve exemptions for programs that will not affect or will beneficially affect cultural resources. Exemptions for individual undertakings will not be approved. Steps in the application process include: submission of what amounts to a "case report," public notice and comment, review and decision by Council, and public notice.

Bill Re: Illicit International Artifact Trade

The Senate Finance Committee has agreed to a measure implementing the 1970 United Nations treaty regarding illicit international trade in artifacts. A house bill has been introduced by Representative Bob Edgar, D-Pa. The American Association of Dealers in Ancient, Oriental, and Primitive Art has--with the aid of Senator Moynihan, D-NY--blocked such a measure for over 10 years. The primary compromise requires the U.S. to enter into specific agreements with other countries before any restrictions can be imposed.

ARPA Update

The regulations for the Archaeological Resources Protection Act of 1979 (P.L. 96-95; U.S.C. 470 aa-11) are under review by the Solicitor and Assistant Secretaries for Indian Affairs; Energy and Minerals; Indian Affairs; Energy and Minerals; and Territorial and International Affairs. Their comments are due January 7, 1983. The expectation is that the Assistant Secretaries will rubber-stamp the proposed regulations. However, should there need to be modifications, these will be made, and the regulations will be sent to the Secretaries of Army, Defense, and Tennessee Valley Authority by January 17, 1983. Their review should take only 2 weeks. Departmental Consulting Archaeologist Bennie Keel expects the ARPA regulations to be published in the Federal Register and submitted to Congress by and possibly before March 1, 1983. After the regulations are submitted to Congress, there is a 90 day review period before they take effect. Congress may comment but probably will not as Congress gave itself no authority to reject the regulations. So look for the ARPA regulations to be in effect by June 1983.

Possibility of criminal charges stemming from the use of state funds for personal use.

Townsend, when contacted by the CCPA Newsletter on January 12, 1983, had no comment.
ARCHAEOLOGICAL SOCIETY NEWS

State Archaeologist Bruce E. Rippeteau, stands for Program for Avocational Archaeological Certification (PAAC). The program was introduced in 1978 after considerable scrutiny of similar programs in other states. It was initiated as a cooperative effort between the Office of the State Archaeologist of Colorado and the Colorado Archaeological Society (CAS) to provide CAS members with recognized levels of archaeological expertise outside formal, academic degree programs. Such training permits avocational archaeologists to provide valuable public service, and members become a reservoir from which the professional community might draw for appropriate purposes. It serves many other purposes also, not the least of which is to provide a vehicle for educating amateurs to hold views more sympathetic to the resource.

The goals of the program are to offer primarily practical training in the areas of survey, excavation, and laboratory techniques. Until now, training has been limited to the Survey module, which offers three progressive levels of certification: Provisional Surveyor, Certified Surveyor I, and Certified Surveyor II. Plans are currently being formulated to develop course offerings for the Excavation and Laboratory modules.

Since 1979, CAS members in Denver, Pueblo, Fort Collins, Durango, Lyons, and Grand Junction have participated in PAAC. The following courses, the majority of which require 20 hours each of class time, have been taught within the Survey module:

1. Basic Site Survey Techniques
2. Colorado Prehistory
3. Archaeological Ethics
4. Prehistoric Lithics Analysis and Description
5. Prehistoric Ceramic Description and Analysis
6. Historical Archaeology
7. Perishable Materials
8. Excavation

The program is designed to provide independent training that can also supplement or complement formal university training. There are three requirements for participation in PAAC. The person must: (1) be a member in good standing of the Colorado Archaeological Society, (2) subscribe to PAAC's rigid code of ethics, and (3) pay a small administrative fee for each course (cost of reproducing materials). Many hours of classroom work are required along with practical training, and satisfactory completion of written examinations, if required, is necessary.

Since the program's inception there have been four PAAC coordinators. The first was Claudia Nissley, who was followed by Mark Guthrie and Linda Gregonis. The present Coordinator is D.D. Hand. He is responsible for making lesson plans, establishing training schedules, implementing training, and keeping records on all participants. The PAAC Board of Examiners is comprised of the State Archaeologist (Emerson L. Pearson), President of the Colorado Archaeological Society (J. Frank Adkins), and the Board Chairman (Bill Tate).

The program is funded through CAS-donated time that is matched by Federal historic preservation monies and administered by the Colorado Historical Society (CHS). The PAAC Coordinator is an employee of CHS and is under the direct supervision of the State Archaeologist.

PAAC, thus far, has proven to be a highly successful program. Its success in part is due to the support it has received from many members of the professional community who have contributed their time and expertise in the program's formulation and in actual training. PAAC has proven to be a great incentive toward membership in the Colorado Archaeological Society and in the formation of several new CAS chapters.

ARCHAEOLOGICAL ADVISORY COMMITTEE

The Archaeological Advisory Committee (to the State Archaeologist and to the Colorado Historical Society) meets January 22, 1983, at the Colorado Historical Society. Committee members for 1983 are: Regular members: Marcia Tate, Frank Adkins, Marge Patterson, Ed Simonich, and Jayne Chromy; and Ex Officio members: Ivol Hagar, Paul Nickens, Jack Rudy, Roberto Costales, James Hester, Emerson Pearson, and Marvin Wolff.

CAS Board Meeting

The quarterly meeting of the CAS Board will be held January 22, 1983, at the Heritage Center, Denver. Major topics of discussion include Colorado Archaeological Awareness Year progress, plans, and chapter involvements; vandalism, including discussion of recent writings by Nickens et al., King, and Townsend; and discussion of "blue sheet" policy. The "blue sheets" keep track of time donated by CAS members that the Colorado Historical Society is able to turn into real money with Federal matching funds. All Colorado Archaeological Society members are welcome at the meeting.

1982 WAPA SERVICE AWARD

The first Wyoming Association of Professional Archaeologists' Service Award (WAPA) was given to Ms. Margaret Powers of Sheridan for many years of avocational contributions to Wyoming archaeology. Ms. Powers was instrumental in the founding of the Wyoming Archaeological Society (WAS) and in the excavations of many important Wyoming sites.

The award, a large, inscribed plaque, was presented at the October WAPA Annual Business Meeting Banquet in Casper although Powers was unable to attend and will receive it in person at the spring WAPA meeting.

This Service Award series was proposed by WAPA Board Member Bruce Rippeteau to serve (in a similar capacity to the State Archaeologist Award Series, 1977-1980, in Colorado) to recognize meritorious service in Wyoming. WAPA President Tom Larson, with the rest of the Board and Mark Miller, prepared a slate and selected Ms. Powers by acclamation.

It was felt especially noteworthy that the first Awardee of the Professional Association should be an Avocationalist.

CHARLES DIPESO, PH.D., DIES

Archaeologist Charles DiPeso, best known for his excavation of the massive ruins at Casas Grandes in northern Mexico, died of cancer November 29, 1982. Since 1955 DiPeso had directed the Amerind Foundation, a small but internationally acclaimed archaeological research center at Dragoon, Arizona (ca. 80 miles east of Tucson). Born in Chicago, DiPeso's first southwestern field experience was in 1937 on a Field Museum expedition to Colorado. He is survived by his wife and two sons.

BLM'S MOCKINGBIRD MESA SURVEY

Steve Fuller (BLM Durango) has completed the 1982 inventory of Mockingbird Mesa in southwest Colorado. The 1982 season was even more amazing than the results of the 1981 effort (reported at the CCMA annual meeting). BLM completed 2,324 acres of inventory and recorded 428 sites. The sites range in date from possible BMI! sites to PI!-PIII. Isolated field houses were found as well as large BMIII Hamlets and late PI!-PIII villages.

Combined with the 1981 effort BLM now has 3,624 acres inventoried with an average site density of 104 sites per square mile. Steve Fuller is now working on a report of the two season's work, which should be completed and available by June.
PROPOSED AMENDMENTS TO BYLAWS AND CODE OF ETHICS

The following proposed amendments to the CCPA Bylaws (adopted October 1978, amended March 1981) and Code of Ethics (adopted October 1978) will be voted on at the 1983 Annual March Meeting. These amendments were first presented and opened for discussion at the 1982 annual meeting by Sue Collins, Chair of the Bylaws Committee.

There are two categories of amendments; those of form and those of substance. The amendments of form are necessary to make the documents internally consistent and do not change the nature of the Bylaws or Code of Ethics. The amendments of substance, however, do change the content largely to reflect actual practice or incorporate items deemed necessary after 5 years of operation. The Bylaws Committee believes that the proposed amendments would bring the documents up-to-date and reflect CCPA's first 5 years' existence. (It's first meeting was March 10, 1978.)

PROPOSED AMENDMENTS

Amendment 1 (Form):

Major categories, previously designated by Roman Numerals only, will be also designated as "Articles," and the Bylaws will begin with a (contents) list of numbered articles.
